

Win tickets to see On Religion and to question AC Grayling about the play

Posted: Thu, 8th Nov 2012

The new production of AC Grayling and Mick Gordon's stimulating play "On Religion" is being staged at the Tower Theatre in London from 20 to 24 November (with an extra matinee on 24 November).

We have two tickets to give away for the 7.45pm performance on Saturday 24 November after which NSS Honorary Associate AC Grayling will be taking questions from the audience about the play and the issues it raises.

Informed by conversations with leading philosophers, theologians and scientists including Professor Richard Dawkins, Rev Dr Giles Fraser, Professor John Gray, Baroness Julia Neuberger, Archbishop Rowan Williams and Tariq Ramadan, this play explores faith and religion through a human, moving and theatrically cinematic story.

To be in with a chance of winning the tickets, just answer to this question

In which book did AC Grayling question the morality of the allied air offensive against German and Japanese cities in World War II?

Send your entry to admin@secularism.org.uk and the winner will be drawn from a hat.
