

Mother-of-two furious as one son gets free transport to Catholic school while the other doesn't

Posted: Tue, 27th Aug 2013

The mother of two boys attending a Catholic school in Durham says she was told by the council that the younger of the two could not have free transport on the school bus because he wasn't baptised.

Her other son Connor, aged 16, was granted a pass for the bus — even though he wasn't baptised, either. When she told the council this, they said that Connor had been given the pass by mistake.

According to the Northern Echo, Debra Maughan of Langley Park, near Durham, said that when she contacted Durham County Council she was told that her younger son Rhys, aged 11, could not get a place on the school bus because he was not baptised a Catholic — a statement that has been denied by the authority.

"I pointed out that Connor had not been baptised either but that he had a free travel, but was told it was a mistake (that he had been granted it)," Mrs Maughan told the Echo. "Whatever the council's argument, I cannot see why Rhys should not be given free travel, as well. He has never travelled on public transport and won't know where to get off or anything. It would be far better if he could travel with his elder brother."

County council school admissions and transport manager Jane Jack told the paper: "Under the present policy — introduced in September 2012 — we provide free school transport to pupils attending their nearest suitable school if the distance is over three miles. In this case St Leonard's RC School is not the nearest suitable school and therefore the youngest son is not eligible for free transport. The family can however apply for a concessionary seat on transport from Langley Park."

She added: "The older brother's application for free transport was made under the previous policy and it was granted in error due to a mistake in information on the council's records, which has only recently come to light.

"However, because the older son was already in receipt of free travel, the council has agreed not to withdraw it unless there is a change in the family's circumstances, such as a change in address."

Terry Sanderson, President of the National Secular Society, said: "This shows what can happen when you practice religious discrimination in schools. When you favour people from one religion above another, then this kind of anomaly and injustice is inevitable. Durham Council — and every local authority — should treat all children equally during their education."

- Share on What's App
- Share on Facebook
- Share on Twitter
- Share on Email
- Subscribe to RSS Feed

Tags: Faith schools

Related Campaigns

-

No more faith schools

We need inclusive schools free from religious discrimination, privilege or control.

Read More

Related Articles

NSS announces major conference on protecting liberal values

Kenan Malik, Joan Smith and more speaking at NSS Secularism 2024 conference in London. Read More »

Allowing more religious selection in schools would be a big mistake

Abandoning the 50% admission cap would exacerbate the discrimination, disadvantage and division inherent with faith schools, argues Stephen Evans. Read More »

NSS joins open letter against faith school discrimination

Education experts, politicians, religious leaders and public figures unite to call on Education Secretary to keep the faith school admissions cap. Read More »

Faith school found inadequate for ten years fails inspection again

Jewish school where teachers slapped children criticised for poor secular education in latest inspection. Read More »

NSS urges PM to retain cap on faith-based admissions

Supporters of inclusive schools encouraged to tell MPs to protect the 50% cap. Read More »