

Author: David Hart QC

Courts rightly tend to stay out of doctrinal religious disputes

We have become used to the courts getting involved, more or less willingly, in religious issues, not least where religious... Read More »