

Our survey

This survey is part of our response to Welsh government proposals on replacing religious education (RE) with Religion, Values & Ethics (RVE) as part of the New Curriculum for Wales. Click here to find out more.

We are asking of all our supporters across the UK for their experiences and views on the right to withdraw from religious education. This will help inform our response to the consultation and wider work on RE reform across the UK.

* Required Field

RVE survey

Name*:

Email*:

Postcode:

Have you used or considered using your right to withdraw from religious education?

Yes No Unsure

If you answered yes to the question above, please tell us about your experiences?

Are there circumstances where you would support an end to the current right to withdraw from religious education?

Yes No

Please provide more detail:

Under the Welsh government proposals, faith schools will be required to provide a non-denominational locally determined religious education option and a denominational (faith based) option. There will not be the option to withdraw.

Would you be satisfied with a non-denominational religious education option from a faith school?

Yes No Unsure

Why or why not?

What do you think the difficulties would be with faith schools offering a non-denominational religious education option?

Where do you live, attend school or have a family member attend school?

Wales Elsewhere in the UK Elsewhere in the Wales

* For ease, this survey uses the term religious education, though a wide range of subject names are used across the UK, such as religious studies (RS), religion & worldviews (RW), religious and moral education (RME) or religion values and ethics (RVE).

Submit

Reset

Reset