

Tags: Childrens rights & welfare

Religious privilege undermines abuse victims' access to justice

Posted: Mon, 22 Aug 2016 by Richard Scorer

Richard Scorer, a specialist child abuse lawyer at Slater & Gordon draws attention to organisations seeking more lenient treatment over child abuse-connected matters because they are religious and makes the case for no concessions being given.

Which is... Read More »

Tags: Catholic Church, Child Abuse, Childrens rights & welfare, Jehovah Witnesses

The Church, gratitude and the erosion of innocence

Posted: Wed, 11 Mar 2015 by Conor

A parent writes about the problem of innocuous children's activities run with a hidden religious agenda, and defends his right to raise his children how he wishes, without organisations using playgroups as a cover for proselytising to children.

There are probably... Read More »

Tags: Childrens rights & welfare, Education, Parents Perspective, evangelism in schools

Parent's perspective: The Collective Worship dilemma

Posted: Tue, 18 Nov 2014 by A Parent

One parent speaks out about the damaging impact of excluding her young child from mandatory collective worship in school, and how withdrawal isn't really an option at all.

My four year old son has just started primary school. Starting school was a very exciting... Read More »

Tags: Childrens rights & welfare, Christianity, Collective Worship, Education, Parents Perspective

No such thing as a 'faith child'

Posted: Tue, 19 Aug 2014 by John Sargeant

The state and society undermine children's rights, when they treat them as an extension of their parents' religious identity, argues John Sargeant.

Adults are extolled in the Christian tradition to be childlike in their acceptance of the faith. Jesus says:... Read More »

Tags: Childrens rights & welfare

- Opinion